Teaching on the Education Frontier:

Facilitating Online and Blended Learning in Your Classroom

Grades 5–12

Graduate Credit: 1 semester hour

Recognizing the rapid growth of online teaching, the book upon which this course is based provides teachers with a comprehensive, hands-on resource to guide facilitation of online and blended classes. Using clear examples and explanations, author Kristin Kipp shows how to structure online and blended courses for student engagement, build relationships with online students, facilitate discussion boards, collaborate online, and design online assessments. This book illustrates the differences between face-to-face instruction and online teaching, all with a focus on increasing student achievement.

In this course, educators critically reflect and analyze the book’s content with the goal of selecting specific practices to apply in their classrooms.

Recommended for teachers of Grades 5–12.
